Founded in 2011, Tamilrockers is a site that allows users to download pirated movies. These films are usually the new Bollywood, Hollywood Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam and Punjabi movies that get leaked on their website every week as soon as the film releases. With the growing popularity of TV shows and web series on television channels and online streaming platforms, even they are now available for illegal download on Tamilrockers in 2020. Tamilrockers in India Since piracy is illegal in India, the Indian government has banned Tamilrockers but the website remains online as it regularly changes its domain name extension and can also be accessed through proxy sites that lead users to the website. In March 2018, three people linked to the Tamilrockers were arrested. In addition, more Tamilrockers were arrested in Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, in May 2019. Tamilrockers' impact on the revenues of Tamilrockers downloading movies hurt the film industry's revenue as content creators are not compensated as users of these websites do not visit theaters to watch movies that are available on Tamilrockers. Tamilrockers over the years have leaked various blockbusters on the first day of their release. In recent years, films such as Baahubali 2 and Dangal have been hit by leaks online. The entertainment industry reportedly loses about $2.8 billion annually from illegal downloads. Indian internet users are reportedly contributing to being the second largest group for the use of illegal torrent sites worldwide.
